

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

By the president of the United States. A proclamation. In furtherance of the custom of this people the close of each year to engage upon a day set apart for that purpose, in special festival of praise to the Giver of all good, I, Chester A. Arthur, president of the United States, do hereby designate Thursday, the 29th day of November next, as the day for national Thanksgiving. The year which is drawing to an end has been replete with evidences of divine goodness, the prevalence of health, the fullness of harvest, the stability of peace and order, the growth of fraternal feelings, the spread of intelligence and learning and continued enjoyment of civil and religious liberty. All these, and countless other blessings are cause for reverent rejoicing. I do, therefore, recommend that on the day above appointed the people rest from their accustomed labors, and in their several places of worship express their devout gratitude to God that He hath dealt so bountifully with this nation, and pray that His grace and favor may abide with it forever.

CHESLER A. ARTHUR.
By the President:
FREDERICK T. FURNINGHOVEN
Secretary of State.

Yenor was right for once. He predicted frost on the first of November. Most any one could guess there would be frost this month, and not get far out of the way.

Butler and his private palace car are making the campaign lively in Massachusetts. While he doesn't intend, that the state shall go to sleep during the next few days, there are no assurances that he can carry it. He is making a good deal of noise, but does not seem to convert many to Butlerism.

Ex-Senator Tabor may be something of a dodo when it comes to buying a night-shirt, but when it comes to multiplying his riches, he is perfectly practical. He has completed the purchase of very rich carbonate of copper lying in Hardeman county, Texas. The deposits of this ore cover an area of from 100,000 to 170,000 acres, and the purchase price was $250,000.

Another young man has come to the front—Miffin E. Bell, of Des Moines Iowa, who has been appointed supervising architect of the treasury, at Washington. Mr. Bell is only 36 years old. He studied architecture in Pennsylvania, and then came west. He built the state capitol at Springfield, Illinois, the penitentiary at Chester, and the capitol at Des Moines.

There is a bitter, personal campaign in Virginia, and the issues have taken a queer turn. It is now whether Mahone shall be defeated or not. The question of the state debt has been taken out of the canvass completely. The color line has been in some degrees extinguished and old party lines have in a large measure disappeared. The straight republicans are in alliance with the old-time democrats, and the majority of the negroes are fighting by the side of Mahone who was formerly one of the worst enemies of the race. Both sides are spending money freely, and the best oratorical talent in the state is employed on one side or the other. The leaders on both sides are shrewd and determined, and consequently old Virginia is getting pretty well stirred up. What the result will be next Tuesday, no one can tell, but the indications seem to point to the defeat of Mahone.

A report from Washington says, "President Arthur has decided to sustain the action of Postmaster General Greenham in the New Orleans national bank case. This decision of the president is in answer to a petition of a large number of merchants, bankers and others, in New Orleans, who protested against the recent decree of the postoffice department in the lottery case, which decided that, so long as the national bank in question acted as the agent for a lottery company, just so long should its mail be regarded and treated as that of the lottery company which it represented." The postoffice department and the president do not seem to worry the lotteries very much. In the face of all these decisions they keep on doing business and the people do not tire of investing their money in them.

Frank Hutton is doing all he can to make himself the most unpopular official in Washington. It would have been better had he remained at Burlington on the Hawkeye. He is an able editor, and made himself very popular in Iowa, but when he became first assistant postmaster general, he lost his head and imagined he was the biggest man in Washington. After the death of Mr. Howe, he might have become postmaster general, had he demeaned himself with more becoming modesty. But his self-importance, his dictatorial disposition, his lack of respect for his superiors, and his marvellously high opinion of himself, have disgusted the president and the cabinet, and prevented his promotion. He carelessly threw away an excellent opportunity to build up a splendid reputation and to enjoy high political preferment.

It is reported from Washington, but we hope without authority, that President Arthur intends to advocate the entire abolition of the internal revenue system in his forthcoming message. There is still room for reform in the matter of reducing the internal taxes of the country, but such a sweeping recommendation as that suggested in late Washington dispatches, would neither be timely nor answer the demand of the public. It will be a good many years before the tax should be taken off tobacco and whisky. These are articles which can be taxed without proving a burden to the people. By common consent they are regarded as the most fitting commodities to be taxed, and wisdom would dictate that the tax, not be taken off them. However much the people may be in a humor for reform, they are not so blind after reform as to demand whisky and tobacco to go untaxed.

There seems to be a determination on the part of the blood-thirsty detectives and the prosecuting attorney at Lincoln, to believe Mr. Carpenter guilty of the murder of Zura Burns. They are trumping up every little thing possible against the accused, and are endeavoring to manufacture points that will look to his guilt. Just why the officious detectives and the prosecuting attorney are so eagerly bent on prejudging Carpenter guilty, can not be guessed. As yet they haven't proved a single point against him. If they find him guilty they will be compelled to procure something far more tangible than the flimsy chain of circumstances they are glorifying over so much. Before they make such great haste to show their belief in his guilt, they should bring forward some stronger evidence than they have yet produced. Mr. Carpenter may be guilty, but the facts so far do not warrant the belief that he is the murderer of Zura Burns.

ASSAULTED A STATESMAN.

A Pennsylvania Congressman attacked in Public.
READING, Pa., Nov. 1.—A sensation was created here when Congressman Emmert was beaten on the public street by George Smith, Jr., of Bridgeburg, a prominent Democratic politician. It seems that the name of Hiram H. Schwartz, the Democratic candidate for judge of the orphans' court was printed on the county ticket instead of being put separate as judiciary. Smith accused Emmert of having had this done purposely, to accomplish the defeat of Schwartz. High words ensued between the two, when James M. Emmert, a brother of the congressman, struck Smith a blow in the face, drawing blood. Smith then attacked Emmert, when Sheriff Gehret, who was one of the witnesses to the affair, separated the two belligerents. Shortly thereafter the parties again met on the court house steps, when Smith struck Congressman Emmert, knocking him down. The crowd was also kicked by one of the crowd. Emmert's face shows visible signs of the encounter. The whole affair, it seems, was indirectly brought about through certain letters on Berks county politics which have appeared from time to time in the Philadelphia Times. The excitement is high over the matter in political circles.

A MILLION DOLLAR BLAZE.

Fire in a Cotton Warehouse at Savannah, Georgia.
SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 1.—Fire broke out in a large cotton warehouse at 12:30, in which was 2000 bales of cotton, all of which was destroyed. It spread from thence to Joseph Farm mill, Indian and River street. The fire was checked when it reached West Broad street and Indian street. The Electric Light works, and Tynan's iron foundry, are among the principal buildings. The fire raged over the property on the north side of River street were saved. The most of the houses destroyed were of wood, and occupied by poor people. It is impossible at this hour to give a correct statement of the losses, but they are put down at about $1,000,000.

Gold Discovery in Ohio.

BATAVIA, O., Nov. 1.—On Monday a returned California miner, in passing over the farm of Robert Woods, near Afton, some four miles from here, discovered traces of gold. Upon a careful examination found the gold washed in the creek which he is or 200 yards fine. Great excitement exists, and the "diggers" were visited by hundreds of excited people from the surrounding country and towns, including several from Cincinnati. The find is about three miles distant from the mines, quite successfully worked by Captain Gass in 1859. A company is now being organized to prospect and work the discovery, and to keep off the interlopers threatening to dig up the whole country.

Runners About the Pennsylvania Lottery.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—The declaration of a dividend by the Pennsylvania Railroad company is preceded by all sorts of rumors concerning the character of the distribution of earnings that will be made among the stockholders. It is stated in some quarters that a cash dividend of 5 per cent. will be paid. Again it is reported that the dividend will consist of 5 per cent. cash, with an addition of stock or scrip amounting to 3 per cent. more. The finance committee of the board of directors will meet to consider this subject, and they will report to the entire board.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Distribution of German carp will be made to such persons as want them early this month. Applicants should send the size of pond, average depth of water and whether containing other fish or not, as also their full address, postoffice, county and town, name of nearest railroad station and name of express office doing business there. Application should be made to N. K. Tombar, Chicago, S. P. Bartlett, Quincy, Ill., or S. P. McDe, Aurora, Ill. A can or bucket should be sent by parties applying, or the fish commissioners will furnish some and collect cost with other attending expense.

Both Parties Claim It.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 1.—Chairman Cooper, of the Republican state committee, in response to the inquiry as to the prospects for success on Tuesday next, says: "Everything is encouraging; we are active, and there is a great deal of work being done. I can't say anything more than that matters look satisfactory everywhere." Chairman Herold, of the Democratic state committee, when asked if there were any discussions in the party, replied: "I know of no discussions." Both parties here estimate that they will carry the state by a small majority.

Jail Birds Fly Away.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 1.—Four prisoners escaped from the jail department of the county house by tying their bed clothes together and fastening the rope thus made to a window on the third floor. Two of them snatched together and went down at once. Patrick Smith fell two stories, the rope having broken with him. He was found in an unconscious condition, but said he was thrown out of the window by the other prisoners. No tidings have yet been received of them.

WHOLESALE POISONING.

Fourteen Persons Poisoned on One Street in Cincinnati.

The Poison Believed to Have Been in Groceries Purchased in One Neighborhood—One Fatal Case.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 1.—A number of mysterious cases of supposed poisoning on Clark street, west of Freeman, have so far resulted in one death, and great consternation in the neighborhood. The first cases were in the family of C. B. Dorgan, postoffice clerk, who lives at 129 Clark street. His wife purchased some bread and milk from Weiler's grocery, at 321 Clark street, of which the whole family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Dorgan and six children partook of supper Monday night. They also took of the same bread and milk from a butcher on Freeman avenue, between Clark and Oakley streets. About 8:30, shortly after eating supper, all the children, in age from 1 to 10 years, were taken violently ill, vomiting and complaining of pains in the stomach and abdomen. Dr. Abbott, who lives just across the street, was called, and pronounced the sickness the effects of poison. The children continued very sick until about 9 the next morning, when they began to recover, and all are now nearly well. Mrs. Surveyor Ludman, who lives at 331 Clark street, purchased bread and milk from Weiler's grocery, of which she, her husband, and two children, aged respectively 18, months and 3 years, ate at breakfast. Both the little children were taken ill, immediately after, both vomiting and striking with pain. The little boy, the older of the two children, after a few hours, began to recover, but the little girl, Alice, continued to grow worse until 6 a. m., when she died. This family was also treated by Dr. Abbott. Two Misses Davis, young ladies, who live at 311 Clark street, who partook of bread and milk from the same grocery, were also affected in the same way, and are still in the critical condition, though it is believed they will recover. The wife and child of W. H. Lonsdorf, general broker, who lives at 319 Clark street, just across the alley from the grocery, ate of bread, milk and other groceries from there, and both were ill, having the same symptoms as the others. The child has nearly recovered, but Mrs. Lonsdorf is still in a precarious condition. A child of Mr. Asher, on Hopkins street, and one child of Walter, the grocery, are also ill in the same way, and under similar circumstances. In all there were fifteen cases in the immediate neighborhood, all of whom had partaken of bread, milk and other groceries from Weiler's, and it is the general impression that the time caused from some poison which found its way into one or more of the articles. This opinion is coincided with by Dr. Abbott, and an analysis will be made of the articles to determine what it is.

Sensible Girl.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 1.—Eugene Lynch, who was to have married Miss Katie Mulcahey, but who left the town before the wedding, has written from New York to Miss Mulcahey that he could not help himself and that while regretting what he has done, he meditates suicide. It is believed that a lack of finances made him run away, as it has been found that he had nearly ruined his credit borrowing small sums of money, even his intended aunt being one of his creditors. Miss Mulcahey is very philosophical and says that she is well rid of him.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Speech and Manners—The Manners of Fo Hi.

SPEECH AND MANNERS, FOR HOME AND SCHOOL. By H. H. Blanchard. Chicago: James, McHugh & Co. For sale by James Sutherland & Sons, Janesville. Cloth, square 8mo., pp. 24, price $1.

This book, by the popular author of "Six little corks" and "Dora's housekeeping" (with which it is to be issued in uniform style), is intended to call the attention of young people to the importance of a correct use of their mother tongue, and to furnish some hints in regard to the most common violations of good breeding. The readers will not improbably find themselves conscience-stricken at the thought of their own frequent sins against "the king's English," not to speak of the points connected more especially with juvenile life and comprised under the general name of Manners. It is a very important little book and will be warmly welcomed by children and teachers.

THE MISSEURS OF FO HI, a Celestial Fiasco, translated from the French of Francois Serey, Chicago: James, McHugh & Co. For sale in Janesville by James Sutherland & Sons. Cloth, 19 mo., pp. 24, price 50 cents.

This splendid piece of satire is from the French of Francois Serey, and is published in handsome form by James, McHugh & Co. The public service of China, as portrayed in the little volume, affords a rich field for a study of many peculiarities of public plunder; and the "misere" of Fo Hi, a "functionary" whose chief misfortune is the possession of certain fixed notions of fidelity and honor in his official position, is a fine illustration of the workings of that delightful system, whether in China or elsewhere. The work has no small share of the keenness and wit that mark the satirical writings of the best French school. Its overflowing humor is delicious, and there are few pages from first to last but will provoke a hearty laugh at some unexpected bit of sarcasm or fine touch of drollery. Although intended primarily to "hit" French governmental methods, it has no lack of points of application to our own country, upon whose system of management of public business its satire is as direct and irresistible as it is neat and delicate. It would be a happy thing if a few of our "working" politicians and "practical" statesmen would read this little book; or, if too much engrossed with public affairs, they might at least peruse the "Story of the Shabby Old Man" and study the aphorisms by which Fo Hi records his successive advances in political experience.

You Sm! Cure that cough with Volker's Cherry Cough Cure. It will do it. Prentice & Evenson, the druggists opposite the post office, warrant every bottle. It contains no opium, and five children is the only safe remedy in the market. Try it. Price, 50 cents.

Puffer went to Appleton to-day, the former gentleman to assume the superintendency of the Appleton boot and shoe company, and the latter to take charge of one of the departments. —The Beloit Free Press: Mrs. F. F. Cox is dangerously sick with lockjaw arising from a slight fork wound accidentally inflicted upon one of her hands a few days since. Mr. Jeremiah Riley, known as "Jerry" Riley the tailor, an elderly man, was found dead in his bed this morning, having died sometime in the night. He had been afflicted with asthma for a long time, which probably occasioned his sudden death.

—While visiting his esteemed friend, Mrs. J. L. Hastings, of this city, Dr. Butler, of our State university, read at the home of Mr. W. A. Lawrence, his choice paper, "Our National Park." This park of ours, so redolent of life and heat, so grand in its hues, so true in its ideal, faithful, has a counterpart in the doctor's soul and classic eye; and we, who were so favored to visit it through his pictures, trust that at some near future the many friends of this artist in this city may have the same pleasure.

—Ex-Alderman Oscar F. Nowlan, who removed his family to Madison last spring to remain during the building of the capitol annex, of which he is one of the contractors, has removed back to this city, and is to-day taking possession of his residence on Cornelia street, second ward, where they will be cordially welcomed by their many friends, and Oscar will again be "one of us." Mr. Nowlan hopes to be able to complete his contract on the capitol annex by the first of February. The heavy work on the building is now completed, and the most that remains to be done is the plastering, and the interior finish. The Fond du Lac court house, of which he is also a contractor, is nearly completed, and the insane asylum, at Traverse City, Michigan, another one of his heavy contracts, is progressing rapidly. Mr. Nowlan is full of business, and is the kind of a man to rush through good work.

Halloween.

Halloween was duly observed by many people in this city last evening. There were many select gatherings in different parts, and the young people indulged in the sports usual on such occasions, and enjoyed the evening in a pleasant and becoming manner. But not so with the hoodlums, who seem to have made their appearance in almost every quarter of the city. These bands of rough characters were bent on doing all the mischief they could, and in many instances property was wantonly destroyed. In the first ward several windows being broken, while all over the city indications were plainly visible that "Gideon's band" had been making a parade, as gates were unhinged, hitching posts pulled up, horse-blocks overturned, and in some localities dwelling houses were disfigured by being pelted with decayed vegetables. Some of the parties who were the victims of this unwarranted mid-night raid are threatening to prosecute the lawless parties. Some of the parties who were making a wreck of the first ward were caught in their acts last evening, and they will probably have the first chance to settle the bill. Otherwise from the above Halloween passed very quiet in Janesville.

"A Good Joke" on Some One.

"Your September gas bill is $3," said the collector.

"That's the best joke I've heard in a long time," said the rate-payer.

"Why?"

"Well, you see, in August I had six cents in the family, and we burned gas all night, and the bill was only $4. In September my family was in the country, the house was closed up, and the bill is $3. Good joke, isn't it?" and the citizen had a fresh fit of laughter.

"Yes," said the collector, "it's a good joke, but who's it on?"

"Oh, I suppose it's on me; but I don't mind $4 for the sake of a joke."—San Francisco Post.

A Terrible Surgical Operation.

A terrible surgical operation was performed on Mr. C. H. Biddle, of Beloit on Tuesday, for the removal of the cancerous humors with which he is so seriously afflicted. From the Free Press of Tuesday, we learn that the surgeons, of whom there were seven in attendance from Chicago, Michigan and elsewhere, and resident physicians found it necessary to amputate the right arm at the shoulder socket, and to make extensive incisions in his right side and right breast. The operation was performed while Mr. Biddle was under the influence of anaesthetics. His condition now is of course, critical in the extreme, but the surgeons say that if he passes safely through the sixth and ninth days after this operation the chances of recovery will be in his favor. This desperate remedy was had recourse to as a last resort, as without it there was no possible chance for recovery, as the intense pains superinduced by the dreadful disease would have soon been beyond human endurance. Many prayers will be breathed in Mr. Biddle's behalf until the result is known.

The Free Press of last evening adds the following particulars:—"Mr. C. H. Biddle is resting quite comfortably to-day. He is conscious and is doing as well as could be expected after undergoing such a dreadful ordeal as he experienced yesterday. The surgical operation was performed under the direction of Prof. Hall, of (Hahnemann College of surgery, Chicago, who was assisted by Drs. H. R. Clark, Backeridge, Jaynes and Molen, and Dr. Shoom, of Buchanan, Michigan."

A Wife's Trouble.

For a number of years my wife has been troubled with chronic rheumatism, it being in some portion of her body constantly, (except perhaps in the warmest weather in summer.) Last Christmas she contracted a very severe cold, and a diseased condition of the kidneys became manifest, which subjected her to excessive suffering, as the symptoms of gravel became more prominent, her urine being colored, accompanied by a heavy break-down sediment.

After trying several remedies without relief, I procured for her a bottle of Hunt's Remedy, which she commenced taking, and before three days had passed she became much better. She continued using the medicine until she had used six bottles, and now feels entirely cured of both rheumatism and kidney complaint. She believes her present excellent health due solely to the use of Hunt's Remedy.

Gratifying Results.

Under date of May 14th, Mr. E. A. Thompson, the well-known grocer and provision dealer, of 75 Green street, New Haven, Conn., writes as follows: "Several weeks since I was taken very ill with kidney disorders, and an examination of my urine showed a very diseased condition of my kidneys, and I had also symptoms of my diseased state of my liver. The passing of my urine was accompanied with severe pains in the small of my back and loins, followed by a burning sensation and after having stood for a few minutes in the street, I was covered with a heavy deposit of a sediment similar to ground brick-dust, and in short, I found that I was in such a diseased condition as to require immediate treatment, and as I was anxious to obtain the best and most speedy remedy, I looked for the best and became convinced that Hunt's Remedy was an article of excellent merit, and therefore I concluded to give it a trial, and commenced taking it, and before three days had passed I found such a great improvement that I decided to continue its use, and by taking only two bottles the result has been most gratifying in giving me restored health."

I have ordered a supply of Hunt's Remedy for my store and shall hereafter have it for sale, as I consider it an excellent article for diseases of the liver and kidneys.

A Jolly Load of Fishermen.

Yesterday morning at about four, a jolly fishing party, consisting of Messrs. Frank Wood, John Hanlow, Levi Horn, John F. Ehrhinger, John Bateman, J. P. Withington, and George VanKeuren chartered a four horse carryall of Harry Carter, and went to Indian Ford on a fishing excursion. The party remained at the Ford all day, returning home in the evening. The party enjoyed a capital time, and had the good luck of catching several very large strings of good fish. In fact they had, judging by the fish they had on exhibition last evening, better luck and a better time, than any similar party which has visited the Ford. The party had several little mishaps; Mr. Horn made some misadventure in regard to the depth of Rock river, and paid for his reckoning by being immersed in the bosom of the cold water. Mr. Truman Mosher, the driver of the carryall, had the misfortune to catch hold of a Rock river minnow with his little hook, and either the hook, the minnow, or the river, deceived him, and he was obliged to get on the hot side of the camp fire to dry his exterior.

All in all, the party had good luck, and, were well repaid for all their time, trouble and experience by the extraordinary large catch of fine fish.

A WORLD OF LOVE.

That Led to a World of Sorrow at Batavia, New York.

Further Details of the Recent Tragedy—The Injured Husband and the Fallen Wife—Some Loving Belief-Doubt.

BATAVIA, N. Y., Nov. 1.—As soon as the Lynch-Rowell tragedy became known on the streets, a large crowd of people flocked to the scene. Those who heard the cries and burst into the scene saw a shocking sight upon the street, in his shirt-sleeves, and directed of him and shoes. His feet were toward the street door, and his head lay in a pool of blood.

L. N. Rowell, his murderer, stood by the side of the body, calm and apparently indifferent. "What's the matter?" asked Charles E. Reed, a neighbor. "I found this man in my house, and I shot him," answered Rowell.

"He had seduced my wife," Rowell said, sobbing and almost frantic with grief. "See what you have done," she said to her husband. "You will have to be hanged." "Well, I shall have to suffer for it, not you," responded Rowell. "I have warned you time enough about this man," Coroner Taylor soon arrived, being followed by Under-Sheriff Southworth and other police. By this time Rowell had gone upstairs and was talking with his wife. When the officers approached him he submitted quietly to arrest. After he had been taken to the jail, he was taken to his home, and his wife was taken to her home.
